BOWLING GREEN STATE COLLEGE
BOWLING GREEN, OHIO

PRES. H. B. WILLIAMS

GROWN UP

An incident which happened in the main corridor of the Administration Building in the early days of this institution will serve as a good introduction to a little exhortation which I wish to make in this brief editorial.

A certain freshman student was given to boyish pranks. One day he drew a caricature of another student on the bulletin board and as I chanced to pass and caught him labeling his picture with the name of the student he was trying to ridicule, he turned and asked me what I thought of his intended joke. "Well," I said, "it looks to me like short-trouser stuff", meaning that it was a juvenile performance. As quick as a flash, he remarked, "I see the point. I forgot that I am in college now."

I wonder if this is not an apt illustration of a common error of students, especially in an institution that has developed as rapidly as this one has through several stages—normal school, normal college, regular college, and now university. I do not mean to imply that the work attempted in these earlier stages was not important and necessary. One of our functions must always be the preparation of teachers for the elementary schools—a service as dignified and essential as any university endeavor. I am thinking of the pride and institutional self-respect which faculty and students should have for such a reliable and respectable institution as this one has striven to be in all the various stages of its evolution. When legislation advancing it to university status passes both houses of the General Assembly without a dissenting vote, it is strong evidence of what others think of the school. We have attained our majority both in years and in recognition both at home and abroad. St. Paul, the greatest scholar of his time said, "When I became a man, I put away childish things." We are out of the short-trouser age and into the university gown age. Let us wear our new insignia becomingly.

H. B. Williams, President

B. G. S. U. 1914-1935

Recent state legislation of particular import to Bowling Green, causes us to review briefly the growth of our institution which we are now proud to call Bowling Green State University.

In the year 1902, Ohio passed its first normal school law, the Seese Law, which provided for the establishment "of two state normal schools to be located as follows: one in connection with Ohio University at Athens and one in connection with Miami University at Oxford."

In 1910, the General Assembly passed another act authorizing the Governor to appoint a commission to locate two normal schools in Northern Ohio. Bowling Green, chosen as one of the centers, opened its doors to students on September 15, 1914, in temporary quarters in the city Armory. The first faculty was composed of fifteen members including four critic teachers. Three hundred and four students were in regular attendance in the first academic year, 520 in extension work and 615 in the summer terms. Since the demand for teachers was greater in the elementary field, the great majority of students chose the two-year diploma courses. However, as the institution developed, the demand for teachers with academic degrees increased.

By 1929, out of about 900 students enrolled, 350 were degree students and 550 elementary students. In this same year, the General Assembly further extended the

A REFLECTION FOR THE CLASS OF 1935

To each of us, the granting of the baccalaureate degree marks the close of that period of shared living which characterizes and enriches undergraduate years. It is fitting that we reflect upon the meaning of this training which we have shared together—the challenge which arises from it.

Adjustment to life, the broad measure of effective living, has been philosophically divided into three parts: (1) Recognition, (2) Adaptation, and (3) Control of life forces. Of these, the growth resulting from our educational activity may be roughly classified under the first two phases:

I

Through our study of the potential and kinetic forces of our physical world; through our study of the historical evolution of our species and civilization; and through the aesthetic appreciation of harmonious relationships we have developed an enriched recognition of the nature of the culture in which we live.

II

We have learned to live together, to live effectively by meeting situations with increasing understanding and accuracy, to organize from seeming chaos an interpretation of that culture which renders us socially efficient. We have developed the capacity to adapt ourselves more fruitfully to our social environment.

III

We are now faced with the third great phase of complete adjustment—control.

That we may live more harmoniously we must endeavor to modify those forces and situations which constitute our sphere of action. This problem of control is rendered more challenging than ever before due to the increasing complexity and rapid movement of "men and machines"; it is more exacting than it was four years ago because of the generally raised standards of efficiency developed during the competitive era of depression from which we are now emerging; it is, moreover, rendered most challenging because we must go forth from a life which has been shared in partial exclusion to one in which we must act as individuals.

Ours is a great opportunity. Ours is the obligation to accept that opportunity with the fullest measure of our strength, our increased vision, our ability to live together. It is our opportunity, our obligation, to so live that our several energies are blended into a maximal unity of effort in order to secure the control and studied modification of that environment. Our appreciation of harmony and our commonality of social ideals must give to our individual efforts the necessary unity. Especially to those of us who are to enter the profession of teaching does the challenge ring! For we are faced with the plasticity of future society; we are possessed of a definite aim—social harmony; and it is ours to accept this trust with high courage, accuracy, and thoroughness.

service of the college by passing the Emmons-Hanna Bill, thereby changing the name of the institution to Bowling Green State College and adding a College of Liberal Arts. Seventy-six enrolled the first year in this College and the increase since has reached a total of 200 students for 1934-35.

Desirous of extending the same advantages to Northern Ohio as those offered by the older state educational institutions of Southern Ohio, bills were introduced in the 91st General Assembly to change the present name to Bowling Green State University, add a College of Business Administration and provide for graduate work. These bills passed both houses without a dissenting vote and were signed by the Governor on May 21. From the very first year, a steady and healthful development of the physical plant and academic offerings has been a distinct characteristic of the College and with the recent vote of confidence, as it were, and the means of expansion granted by the present legislature, the new University of Northwestern Ohio will be in a position to render still greater service to its constituents.

Speech Activities 1934-1935

With the opening of the first semester, about 20 men and women engaged in a study of the munitions question. Discussions were held at Rossford High School and before the Men's Business Club of Pemberville. In December, two men's debate teams entered the Novice tournament at Hiram College. In January, men's teams debated before the American Legion at Bowling Green and at Waterville. During the Christmas vacation, Earl Cryer and Karl Karg went with Professor Carmichael to New Orleans to present the first debate ever given before the National Association of Teachers of Speech Convention. On the way, they met the University of Cincinnati and State Teachers College, Cape Girardeau, Mo. At New Orleans, they met a team from Kent State College.

The women opening the season in January at the Women's debate tournament at Kent. In February, 12 men entered the Manchester, Indiana, tournament. Then came debates with Manchester College; St. John's University, Toledo; Toledo University; Wheaton College; Dennison University; Western State Teachers. In March, both men and women entered the Pi Kappa Delta Provincial tournament at Westerville, and the men's tournament at the University of Iowa. The year ended with a trip by the women to Cedarville College and Asbury College. Contestants were also in competition in oratory and extempore speaking for both men and women. Over 80 debates were held during the year.

Orators were: Hulda Doyle and George Rohrs; extempore speakers: Yvonne Steffani and Robert McKee; debaters: Hulda Doyle, George Rohrs, Robert McKee, Yvonne Steffani, Earl Cryer, Karl Karg, James Vann, Joseph Straley, Joe Hilty, Loyal Gryting, Henry Goranson, A. Barton Swartz, Ruth Griffith, Betty Boyer, Carolyn Ruth Carman, Margaret Sheffer, Arthur Freedman, Rev. Brock, John Kilbane.

The season ended with a banquet at Shatzel Hall with friends from Heidelberg College and Toledo University as guests. This was the fourth annual dinner of the three colleges. Each year, a joint initiation ceremony of members of the three chapters of Pi Kappa Delta is held in connection with the banquet.

Foreword

Realizing the satisfaction that a year-book brings, when memories of college life are dimmed by oncrowding years, and deeming it only just that the year 1934-1935 should, too, be encribed for future reference and recall, the Bee Gee News offers this Commencement Issue.

The task of collecting, preparing, and editing the material for this number was one which the regular staff could not have accomplished unaided.

So it is with unbounded gratitude, that we here call attention to the faculty, the score of students, the old staff, the new, and our faculty adviser, who voluntarily contributed time and effort, without stint, to bring this booklet whatever worth it may possess.

May they find in the fruit of their handiwork, some measure of compensation for their highly-valued, indispensable services.

The Editor

Beauty

What do we know of beauty? we of earth?
Of ecstasy and singing nights of stars?
Upon our puny scales we weigh its worth
And beauty on our souls has left no scars.

None to show that once we heard a song
Whose loveliness rose like a thrilling cry,
Fell like shattered moonbeams into nothingness—
And left us bodyless, content to die.

But, we—we watch the steps of paradise
Born of the pregnant, living spring
And say, well pleased, "How charming this,"
Instead of falling to our knees and worshipping.

FIVE BROTHERS

Athletically and scholastically the Five Brother fraternity ranks high on the campus and feels that the group is prepared to cooperate and lead in the functioning of wholesome, proper, and entertaining university social life. Those officers who were directly responsible for the success of the fraternity during the past year are:

Ye Olde Skull James Deter
Ye Olde Crossbones Richard Wallace
Miser James Greetham
Scribe Audrey Stevenson
G. A. P. Robert McKee
Temple Keeper Lewis Miller
Chaplain John Parks
Loyal Brother Verdon Crawford

SEVEN SISTER

The Seven Sister sorority was organized in 1922, having for its aims the encouragement of high scholarship, the promotion of college spirit, ideals, and traditions, the participation in all college activities, and the encouragement of social activities among the members. Through the advice and co-operation of the sponsors, Miss Caroline Nielsen and Mrs. Lillian Tressel Urschel, many successful activities have been achieved each year. The officers are:

President Margaret Foster

Recording Sec. Grace Zeigler
Corresponding Sec. Charlotte Planson
Treasurer Valeska Lambertus
Chaplain and Historian Inez Gorsuch
Marshal Alyce Davidson
Reporter Josephine Herman
Faculty Advisor Miss Caroline Nielsen

3K SORORITY

The 3-K Sorority was organized in 1929 in order to promote higher ideals of friendship and scholarship. The officers for the term 1934-35 are:

President Yvonne Michels
Vice President Kathleen Carter
Secretary Helen Mae Park
Treasurer Helen Miller

COMMONERS

The Commoners fraternity aims to help promote a better University, and to be of aid to young men in campus life. It carries forth these aims by maintaining a high scholarship, by affording an opportunity for fine fellowship, and by providing social training for its members, as well as by working for the benefit of the entire University. The officers are:

President Arthur Wohlers
Vice President Joseph Jordan
Secretary John Gaeth
Treasurer Kenneth Doehring
Faculty Advisers—Dr. W. A. Zaugg, and Prof. W. E. Singer.

LAS AMIGAS

Six years ago the Las Amigas sorority was founded for the benefit of the two year elementary students. Its purpose has been to encourage a high standard of scholarship among the girls specializing in primary and intermediate courses.

Las Amigas girls appreciate the advice and friendship of their sponsors, Miss Hedrick and Miss Wills and enjoy their frequent visits to Las Amigas House, 318 N. Prospect St.

Y. M. C. A.

1934-35 saw the membership of the "Y" reach a new high. An ambitious program was the chief factor in this increase. Among the achievements of the year were: joint-sponsorship with the Y. W. C. A. of the "Mixer", operation of the Y Book-Exchange, publication of the second College Directory, sending delegates to the Oberlin Anti-War Conference, conclusion of a membership drive with a swim at Toledo, part-backing of the Peace Rally of April 11, and the Sunrise Easter Service. Officers for the past year were:

President Robert Ruth
Vice President Dale C. Kellogg
Secretary Franklin Belding
Treasurer Arthur Knape
Editor, Directory Harley Barnette
Chaplain Robert McLaughlin
Faculty Advisers—Prof. L. E. Fauley, Dr. W. A. Zaugg, Mr. W. C. Jordan, and Prof. E. C. Powell.

MAY QUEEN AND ATTENDANT

Coronation of May Queen

Tuesday, May 21, at 4:00 o'clock on the circle before the Administration building the coronation ceremonies for the May Queen of Bowling Green University, Miss Marian Guernsey, took place.

The procession came down the steps led by two heralds. Tiny flower girls preceded Miss Guernsey whose natural queenliness added to the reality of the scene. Miss Guernsey wore a long gown of white satin with a shoulder train and carried an arm bouquet of roses, snapdragons and other blossoms. The train was carried by two small train bearers. The crown bearer and the Queen's attendant followed. The attendant, Miss Dorothy Pace, was beautiful in a formal gown of blue organdy and with an armful of roses. The procession concluded with a group of senior girls and two representatives from each of the classes who bore a rope of flower garlands.

When the Queen had ascended the throne and the crown had been placed on her head a program of special music and dancing was given in honor of Her Majesty. The dancing was under the direction of Miss Emilie Hartman.

After the program, the Queen descended the throne and the procession began across the green to the circle and up the

Football

The Bowling Green State College football team won two, lost three and tied two during the 1934 season. Victories were scored over Otterbein, 20 to 0, and over Capital, 13 to 6. Defeats were administered by Toledo U and Mt. Union. Scoreless ties were played with Kent State and the undefeated Ohio Northern team. The Ohio Northern team came to B. G. undefeated and untied, and went home with a mar on their record, as an equally strong B. G. team outplayed them and held them to a tie. Four or five players were lost through graduation but some fine Freshmen prospects are coming up to bolster the forces. B. G. can feel assured of having a strong team next season.

Intermural Basketball

The Delhi fraternity team won the intermural basketball championship by defeating the Travelers team in the playoff. The two teams were deadlocked in first place at the close of the schedule. The Delhi team, during the schedule, lost to the Travelers, while the Travelers lost to the House of Watty for their only loss. Barnes, Tippen, Hipp, McColloch and Berry represented the Delhi, while T. Roper, W. Roper, Wight, Whitacre and Kuhlman represented the Travelers. Fifteen teams were playing once a week and a very successful schedule was played. Competition was close at all times and a bigger and better race is expected next year.

Golf

The Falcons of Bowling Green State College opened their golf season with a victory over St. Johns U of Toledo. Findlay was the second victim of the Falcons and St. Johns administered the first defeat in a return match. The Falcons closed the season with another victory over Findlay. Red Stevenson, Dick Wallace, Jack Kinney, and Fenstermaker composed the Falcon team. Following is the schedule that was played:

May 7—St. Johns at B. G.
 May 14—B. G. at Findlay
 May 21—St. Johns at Toledo
 May 23—Findlay at B. G.

First row: Wilson, Shafer, Hartman, Ihnat, Albon, Lewis, Riffle.

Second row: Prof. Steller, Prof. Landis, Conrad, Stevenson, Weber, Inman, Wallace, Knappe (mgr.)

Basketball

Bowling Green State College Falcons opened the basketball season by winning three straight games. Kent State, Ashland and Otterbein were the victims. Toledo U came from behind to defeat the Falcons and snap the winning streak. The next game resulted in a victory for Marietta. The Falcons again broke into the victory column by defeating Ohio Northern, the Alumni and Heidelberg. The Falcons dropped into another losing streak and lost the next and final six games. Baldwin-Wallace, Hiram, Ohio College of Chiropractic, Ohio Northern, Heidelberg and Toledo U recorded victories over the Falcons during the losing streak.

Second Row: Prof. Steller, Park, Bishop, Snyder, Stevenson, Ihnat, McKee, Myers, Karg, Prof. Landis.

Track Season - 1935

Bowling Green this year had one of the strongest teams in its history. Although several meets were dropped, the trackmen showed much more strength than they have in the past.

The Falcons were particularly strong in the dashes and hurdles with John Hartman as the ace. The balance of the team was well balanced with power in every department.

The Falcons lost three indoor meets as Oberlin, Wayne U. and Toledo U won victories. The outdoor season was more successful as victories were scored over Capital and Heidelberg. Defeats were administered by Ypsilanti and Toledo U.

The Falcons showed their power when they took second in the northwestern Ohio track meet and third in the Ohio conference meet.

The Falcons of Bowling Green took third place in the Ohio Conference track meet at Wooster. Oberlin won the meet and Wooster finished second. The Falcons won four firsts and Oberlin three, but Oberlin won many points by taking seconds and thirds.

John Hartman, the ace of the Falcons team, was the individual star of the the meet by taking three firsts. John won the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the 220 yard low hurdles. Ken Weber took the other first for B.G. by winning the discuss event.

Interclass Sports

Interclass competition in sports was very keen, as each class was out to win the honors.

The Seniors won the interclass basketball championship by nosing out the Sophomores who gave them a great battle.

The keenest competition came in the interclass track meets. The Frosh nosed out the Juniors by a point to win the indoor meet. The Seniors easily won the outdoor meet with the Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen following in that order.

Women's League

The Women's League is an organization of all women on the campus. The Women's League Board is composed of officers elected by the entire League and of representatives from the various rooming houses, and is the self-governing body of the women of the university. The aim of the Board, however, is not entirely disciplinary but it aims also to promote sociability and good will among all the women of the campus. During this year the League sponsored two all-college dances, a tea dance, and the May Day exercises.
